Scenes: Vikings - Strong and Mighty

Day 1:

Burial Ceremony

All the Vikings are present, for they wish to pay tribute to the old Earl. Sven, the old Earl was married and had high authority because of his good leadership qualities. His strategies were always good. That's why he was called "strong and powerful" Sven always had his raids carried out to the east. So far his men have always brought back treasures but for some time now they have been coming to an end.

Sven died in battle. This allows him to enter Valhalla and celebrate with his forefathers.

At his funeral, a speech is made about him. His strongest wars are especially praised (possibly hymn). Of course, this ceremony is performed by the Oracle Priestess. The oracle priestess has the wire to the gods, is therefore never fully present and seems a bit twisted, gloomy, mysterious, mystical (darkly made up eyes, chains in the hair, flowing robes) Music possibly:

2nd day:

The merchant comes

Pjörk the Merchant is once again coming through Viking territory with his junk. He always brings with him the latest news. He has a horse-drawn carriage filled with useless stuff (pig's ears, dried meat, pans, blankets, potions, barrels). Pjörk is a jovial chatterbox, always a little cozy, and makes a slightly crazy impression. But that makes him all the more popular, you don't have to put up with him for long. Pjörk likes to tell senseless stories about his travels. This time he comes from the far away NODVILL- Fjord and travels through the countries to sell his stuff.

From there he brings back some strange coins. They are from the west. He spreads the conspiratorial rumor (but we didn't get it from him, of course) that there are countless treasures in the West. But this is only in passing.

The biggest news is that a new Earl must be found. All the men + appendages are called to the great Thing. But there is still a lot of time until then. Therefore, there is also still opportunity for us to practice for the great contest. The merchant is sure that one of us can make it (but he only says that to suck up to his customers). On the evening of the game, the men are fired up by the oracle priestess once again. The task is to prevail and become the new Earl. Only the strongest man can win. The group fathers profess (from the audience) to be the strongest man and give reasons for this. (The preacher may respond to this).
