Don't drop the ball

Number of players
From 8 years old

Number of players
Between 10-30

Description
This game requires an even number of players standing in a circle. The leader starts and says "one", the next one says "two", the third one says "one" again, the fourth one says "two" again and so on. Two people next to each other (one belongs to the first group and the other to the second group) receive a ball. At the "start" each person places the ball between their knees and bounces around the circle until they get back to their places. Once there, the ball is given to the next teammate who has to perform the same task. Repeat until all participants have surrounded the circle. After that, the people who started receive the ball again, place it between their knees again and go around the circle on all fours. The team that finishes first is the winner.
