David Livingstone

The game gives participants the opportunity to explore the lands of Africa. Learning interesting facts about David Livingstone, they must explore new places and collect points that will help them win the game.

Rules

Each team is given a list of missions to complete. These missions can be completed at any of eight posts, with each post representing a location. By going to the different outposts, participants "discover" the location. The outposts themselves earn points and various items with which they have the opportunity to complete their missions. When a team completes all their missions the game is suspended for a final round where they have a chance to earn extra points. The team that has collected the most points wins.

For detailed rules see the file attached to the game.
