Rules
We divide into two teams. Each team lines up in a row with players from one team facing those from the other team. The leader says a statement and if it is correct team "1" chases team "2", if it is wrong the opposite. If the players from the chasing team reach the safe zone, which is marked at the outer edge of their field, they are saved, but if someone from the chasing team touches someone from the chased team, the person touched joins the opposite team. This repeats until one team is left without players, and if time presses, the game is stopped and the team with more players wins.
