

The silent bivouac

Building an improvised bivouac without talking to each other is a real challenge.

But the results are impressive.

With hands and feet

If you have to deal with people from other cultures or even other languages, it is not uncommon that you have to communicate with hands and feet.