

Cheese slices "Chäässchnitte"

Eating cheese slices can function as a kind of team building activity. We eat cheese slices after the Jungschi afternoon, for example. On the one hand, we use this as a source of nourishment, but also to strengthen the leadership team.

Eating cheese slices together after the Jungschar and exchanging ideas. This is how team building works for us. However, it can also be made with the children as z'Vieri. The preparation is simple, but you can also make it more elaborate. Simply melt the cheese over the fire and then spread it on a piece of bread. The bread can also be toasted beforehand. Preparing and then eating the cheese creates lots of great and funny conversations and you can talk about the afternoon and discuss difficult situations. The raclette pans from the BESJ store, which are linked below, are perfect for melting the cheese.

Material

- Fire bowl
- Wood
- Raclette pans
- Cheese
- Bread
- Sack knife
- Group of motivated people ;-)

Source

Bild: <https://www.psassets.ch/thumbs/7c/5d/cd96d20ef034fc5a9ba3507d8580-56511...>